

The University of Kansas
Bold Aspirations Lecture Series

Gary K. Wolfe

Roosevelt University

“Asking the Next Question: Science Fiction and the Rational Imagination”

Monday, 10 March 2014, 4:00 pm
The Commons, Spooner Hall

Reception immediately following talk

Gary K. Wolfe, contributing editor and reviewer for Locus magazine since 1991; Professor of Humanities at Roosevelt University in Chicago, where he also served as Dean of University College and as Dean of Graduate Studies. Author, Evaporating Genres: Essays on Fantastic Literature and Sightings: Reviews 1997-2001 (both 2011) plus earlier studies The Known and the Unknown: The Iconography of Science Fiction (Eaton Award); David Lindsay; Critical Terms for Science Fiction and Fantasy; Harlan Ellison: The Edge of Forever (with Ellen R. Weil); Soundings: Reviews 1992-1996 (British Science Fiction Award, Nonfiction); Bearings: Reviews 1997-2001, the last two both Hugo nominees. Received Science Fiction Research Association Pilgrim Award, International Association for the Fantastic Distinguished Scholarship Award, World Fantasy Award for criticism and reviews (2007). Edited Up the Bright River (2011), the first posthumous collection of Philip Jose Farmer stories, and American Science Fiction: Nine Classic Novels of the 1950s (Library of America, 2012); co-edited with Jonathan Strahan The Best of Joe Haldeman (Subterranean Press, 2013). Serves on the editorial boards of Science Fiction Studies and The Journal of the Fantastic in the Arts and has served as manuscript reviewer for Oxford, Indiana, Illinois, and Wesleyan University Presses.